NOTE TO PARTICIPANTS of the Thesis Protocol Writing Workshop 2016

Please be punctual. Delayed entry is disrespectful to the speaker who has contributed many hours of her valuable time and resources for your benefit. If, in spite of your best efforts, you do get delayed, please wait patiently outside the hall until the end of the session. For your convenience, breaks between sessions will be announced on a blackboard at the entrance to the hall.

Please switch your mobile phones OFF or keep them in silent mode before you enter. Do remember that if set to vibrate, and placed on a hard surface such as a desk, it can make a frightful sound that can distract and infuriate any speaker and her audience! Do not, on any account, make a phone conversation during the proceedings.

The workshop is designed to be interactive. Your contributions are always welcome. Please raise your hand if you require clarification or help during a session. One of the strengths of this workshop is that you are among friends and colleagues, not surrounded by strangers. So share your thoughts. You have nothing to lose but your inhibitions.
